

Reporting Requirements

GHFRA, GHEFP, GEMS, and Paul S. Lietman Travel Grant Programs

As you return from your trips there are a few housekeeping items that the Center for Global Health requires upon completion of your placement and research.

All CGH Grant recipients [Global Health Field Research Award (GHFRA), Global Health Established Field Placement (GHEFP), Global Established Multidisciplinary Sites (GEMS) and Paul S. Lietman Travel Grant] recipients are required to complete the following:

1. Personal Narrative OR VoiceThread
2. Poster at the 2019 Global Health Day Experience
3. Completion of Post-Program Evaluation Survey
4. 5 Hi-Res photos documenting your experience
5. 1 Hi-Res headshot of yourself

These requirements are due within one month of the completion of your GHEFP experience.

Guidelines for the Personal Narrative and VoiceThread

**Please note: All materials will be posted on the CGH website. Therefore, we encourage participants to produce written material that is high-quality and a product that they will be proud to display online.*

This year, grant recipients have the option to submit a VoiceThread instead of a personal narrative. All Hopkins students have access to voice thread at <https://jhu.voicethread.com/>. We are excited about this option and hope students will elect to create a VoiceThread.

VoiceThread

The VoiceThread should be submitted within one month of program completion. You should include at least 5 images and no more than 10; the presentation must be between 5-10 minutes in length. You may use suggested questions in the following section to guide your presentation.

Once you create your presentation you will need to email the embed code to the CGH. To do this, follow the directions here. Please do NOT send the link – we need the embed code!

Personal Narrative

The personal narrative should be submitted within one month of program completion. Please find below questions that will help you formulate the narrative on your experience abroad, which will be published on the Center for Global Health's website, and may be used to assist in soliciting new funding for student travel.

You do not have to answer all of the questions, but use them as a guideline. Your narrative should be 1 page in length, single-spaced, Times New Roman 12 pt. font.

- What were your initial feelings upon arrival to your country/location of research?
- How has your research experience shaped/changed your perspectives on global health?
- What lessons did you learn about the field of global health?
- What was it like to live and work in a developing country?
- What was the most unique experience you had?
- What experience most closely met your expectations? What one thing most defied your expectations?
- What pushed you out of your comfort zone?
- How did you adapt to the differences in culture and language?
- What surprised you the most?
- What would you tell a student who was considering applying for a similar experience?
- What are the challenges the citizens of the country you visited have to overcome in terms of health/healthcare?
- What are they doing to overcome these challenges?
- Are these things working? Do you see other ways to more effectively address those problems?
- What comparisons can you make between the health situation you encountered in your project country and the situation in either the United States or your home country?
- What did you learn about yourself?
- What did you learn about your future career goals? Did you decide to specialize in something? Did you rule something out?

Global Health Day Poster

You will be required to create a poster board presentation of your research experience and display it at our annual Global Health Day (2019: March 28, 2019). Poster guidelines have been posted online and emailed to all grant recipients.

You will be expected to bring your poster to Feinstone Hall on the afternoon before Global Health Day Reception to follow for all grant recipients and their project mentors.

Students who for some reason cannot attend Global Health Day must inform the Center and must still submit a poster.
